Johnson Reappointed Nebraska Tax Chief

... DR. ZIEGENBEIN KEEPS STATE VET POST

By Don Walton

State Tax Commissioner Forrest A. Johnson was re-appointed Tuesday by Governor-elect Frank Morrison.

Morrison also announced he will retain Dr. F. E. Ziegenbein as state veterinarian.

The appointments marked the governor-elect's 6th and 7th major departmental assignments. He will name others at a morning news conference Wednesday.

In announcing Johnson's reappointment, Morrison revealed that the governor and the tax commissioner "intend to undertake a study within the next year of ways and means to improve efficiency" in state government.

Johnson, 43, was appointed to his present post by the late Gov. Ralph Brooks nearly a year ago.

His appointment, however, has never been confirmed by the Legislature.

Morrison praised the tax chief as "a capable lawyer who knows government."

Johnson "has been a tax commissioner long enough to have demonstrated both industry and ability in analyzing the needs of various departments," he continued.

"He sees eye-to-eye with the governor-elect in the area of improving efficiency in state government."

The tax commissioner's office, Morrison said, is "the keystone and arch of state 1959."

government in Nebraska by virtue of its very nature and responsibility."

The office is generally responsible for administration of the revenue laws of the state, and aids in compiling a state budget.

Pledges 'Best'

Johnson pledged to "continue to do my best to perform as efficiently as possible."

He will serve the unexpired portion of a 6-year term which expires Sept. 16, 1963.

A former mayor of Fremont (1955-59), Johnson is a practicing attorney and former president of the League of Nebraska Municipalities.

He is salaried at $10,000 annually.

Dr. Ziegenbein is chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry in the State Department of Agriculture and Inspection.

He is a former mayor of Nebraska City, and a veteran of more than 10 terms on its city council.

George Morris Likely State Purchasing Agent

George L. Morris of Lincoln Tuesday night appeared to be in line for appointment as state purchasing agent.

An independent candidate for governor in 1956, Morris, 51, was one of 5 men considered for appointment as Morrison's administrative assistant.

Another Agency

Anderson, former Lancaster County Democratic chairman, is scheduled for a new appointment in a different state agency.

The purchasing agent operates a division of the tax commissioner's office and is salaried at $7,500 annually.

He has exclusive authority to make all purchases of articles used by the state, except the University of Nebraska, state normal schools and Board of Control institutions.

12-Inch Snow Cripples Chicago

Pre-Winter Howler Hits Midwest

By The Associated Press

A record pre-winter storm howled into the midwest from the Rockies Tuesday, spilling 12½ inches of snow on Chicago, then speeding northward ahead of falling temperatures.

With the winter season starting officially at 2:27 p.m., CST, Wednesday, the thermometer dropped steadily in cold air spreading southward over the Great Plains. Readings were expected to drop to near 20 below zero during the night in parts of Minnesota and North Dakota and to zero from the central portions of Wisconsin southwestward into Kansas.

Chicago's Midway Airport measured 12½ inches of snow which broke the 11-inch mark for a pre-winter snowfall in a 24-hour period set on Dec. 6 and 7, 1950.

Hazardous Driving

All main streets and highways in the metropolitan area were snow packed and hazardous driving warnings were in effect. Snow crews worked through the day making streets passable. Commuter train service was only slightly snarled.

But Midway Airport itself shut down for more than 12 hours to clear the heavy snows from the runways.

At least 6 deaths were attributed to the storm.

Three members of a family were killed in a two-car collision in a heavy snowstorm near Defiance, Ohio. An Illinois driver was killed when his car skidded into the side of a train.

Shovelers Die

A man in Chicago and one in Missouri suffered fatal heart attacks after shoveling snow.

Three to 6 inches of snow covered most of Ohio, Western Maryland reported an inch fall.

Highways in northern Illinois, northern Indiana, Michigan, Upper Michigan, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, western Maryland, southeastern Wisconsin and parts of Ohio were snow packed and icy in spots.

Cold wave warnings were in effect throughout the Upper Mississippi Valley, the western Upper Great Lakes and the Central Great Plains.

Reporters on Patio

The President-elect was speaking to reporters clustered on the patio of his sea shore home. At his side were Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Mike Mansfield of Montana, who is tabbed to succeed Johnson as Senate Democratic leader.

The 4 were nearing the end of conferences, begun Monday, on legislative issues facing the new administration and new Congress, and problems involved in the change in administrations.

"We have had a very successful meeting," Kennedy said. "I think there is general agreement among all of us about what should be done . . ."

Johnson, Rayburn and Mansfield all said they figured the 5 items Kennedy listed — and he offered no order of priority — ought to clear Congress fairly soon and fairly easily.

"General Agreement"

But it was apparent Kennedy spoke of "general agreement" with reason. For Rayburn referred to a school construction bill rather than aid to education. And he said that while he may not agree with a lot of people he thought the first step should be providing additional school rooms. Then, he said, aid for raising teachers' salaries "may come later."

Kennedy committed himself in the presidential campaign to federal aid for both school construction and higher salaries.

"Tilt" Possible

The man who will become president Jan. 20 said he couldn't answer a question whether he expects to submit a balanced budget to Congress. But he said his words shouldn't be read to mean he would not be willing to tilt the budget out of balance if he felt this was necessary to stimulate the economy.

Kennedy announced that Johnson will take over from retiring Vice President Richard M. Nixon as chairman of a committee which combats racial discrimination in firms holding government contracts. This could put a Southerner in something of an embarrassing spot.

While Castro made the sugar-dumping threat clear, he did not explain how his government will make up the losses in selling to Communist bloc consumers.

—ASSEMBLY IN RECESS—

U.N. Congo Operation Receives Financial OK

United Nations, N.Y. (P) — The General Assembly early Wednesday gave financial approval to the U.N. operation in the Congo after running into a paralyzing deadlock on how to achieve political unity in that African country.

By a vote of 46 to 17 with 24 abstentions the assembly overrode Soviet opposition and set up a special account to pay the costs of this year's Congo operation.

Before the vote Soviet delegate A. A. Roshchin accused Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of setting up a U.N. command dominated by the United States and other Western powers.

Roshchin demanded that the Congo expenses estimated at $60 million for this year should be borne by the United States and Belgium, former rulers of the Congo.

But the assembly approved the resolution that provides specifically that the Congo costs be shouldered by all U.N. members on the regular scale of assessments. The Soviet Union has said it will not pay anything for the Congo operation.

Earlier the assembly deadlocked on rival resolutions dealing with the political aspects of the Congo question. Immediately afterward Hammarskjold announced the Congo operation would be continued "with all energy."

The action of the assembly approving financial costs was a big boost for Hammarskjold.

It came as the 99-nation assembly drove toward adjournment of its session until March 7.

Assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland banged his gavel at 12:57 a.m. EST and pronounced the assembly in recess for 11 weeks.

The United States and Britain lost out by a single vote on a resolution that some saw as a virtual vote of confidence in the way Hammarskjold has directed U.N. efforts in the Congo.

The count was 43 in favor, 22 against and 32 abstentions — one less than the required two-thirds majority. No African country voted for the resolution. Five African countries were opposed and 18, including South Africa, abstained. Two were absent.

A rival resolution presented by India, Yugoslavia and 6 other countries went down to defeat 42 against, 28 for and 27 abstentions.

This resolution sought the release at once of deposed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba and the immediate reconvening of the Congolese Parliament. It would have put the assembly on record as urging the neutralizing of the Congolese Army, which is holding Lumumba prisoner on charges of treason.

At its night session the assembly approved 3 resolutions calling for a permanent cessation of nuclear weapons tests and a ban on spread of nuclear weapons to nations not possessing them. There were no dissenting votes, but the United States abstained on grounds that the resolutions did not provide control measures.

But the major disarmament issues — including Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand for total disarmament — were tossed over to the resumed session. Diplomats were already speculating on how the new U.S. administration headed by President John F. Kennedy will handle them.

"We have had a very successful meeting," Kennedy said. "I think there is general agreement among all of us about what should be done . . ."

Johnson, Rayburn and Mansfield all said they figured the 5 items Kennedy listed — and he offered no order of priority — ought to clear Congress fairly soon and fairly easily.

Student Attorneys Earn Laurels In Moot Competition

Lincoln attorneys acting as judges praised student lawyers competing in the semi-final round of the Allen Moot Court competition at the University of Nebraska College of Law Tuesday night.

The judges — William Nuernberger, Leonard Dunker and Richard Wilson — found for the team of Ronald L. Sluyter of Omaha and Samuel Van Pelt of Lincoln. Their opponents in arguing a Connecticut birth control case were Richard E. Gee and Merritt H. Powell, both of Lincoln.

Robert M. Zuber of Hastings and Sheldon Krantz of Omaha paired as the winning team in the other semi-final case. Their opponents were Miss B. J. Holcomb of Lincoln and August F. Schuman of Anoka. Judges in that case were attorneys Charles Oldfather, Winfield Elmen and Richard Knudsen.

Freshman students acting as bailiffs were Phil Pendegrass and Jim Sheldon of Lincoln.

First Juvenile Judge Starts Working Here

Lancaster County's first Juvenile Court judge took office Tuesday, but doesn't expect to handle any cases in his first week on the job.

William Nuernberger, appointed by Gov. Dwight Burney after Lancaster County voters approved a separate Juvenile Court Nov. 8, took the oath of office in Secretary of State Frank Marsh's office Tuesday morning.

As yet, Judge Nuernberger doesn't have an office of his own. He's working from a desk in the Juvenile Probation office.

The new judge said he doesn't expect any cases this week since it has been general practice to defer juvenile cases occurring during Christmas week.

He has scheduled a visit to the State Training School for Boys at Kearney Tuesday and will go to the girls school at Geneva Wednesday. Within 3 weeks, Judge Nuernberger said, he will go to Minneapolis to study the Juvenile Court system there, which has been recommended to him. He added that he may study the Denver system at a later date.

Burglar Strikes Davey Elevator

Lincoln Star Special

Davey — Manager Allen Dahl of the Davey Cooperative Grain Co. went to check the elevator office late Tuesday and found it had been burglarized minutes before his arrival.

He said the burglars' footprints and car tracks were still visible in the snow.

He called the sheriff's office. Deputies were dispatched to investigate.

Dahl said several dollars in bills and small change was missing from the cash drawer. A typewriter, adding machine, calculator and tools were also taken.

But a locked safe had not been touched, Dahl added, although the contents of an unlocked safe — stock certificates and other documents — were strewn about the floor.

The elevator manager said the burglar gained entrance by removing a window screen and jimmying the window open.

Broken Bow Boy Killed In Louisiana

Baton Rouge, La. (UPI) — Leslie Adams, 5, Broken Bow, Neb., was killed and other members of his family injured Monday in a car-truck accident near here.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Russell Adams and 5 other children were hospitalized. One of the children, Duane, 15, was seriously hurt.

The accident occurred when a truck pulled in front of the car, police said. The Adams family was within two hours of its scheduled arrival at the home of Mrs. Adam's relatives in this area. They also had planned to visit in Georgia during the Christmas holidays.

Hurry-Up Program Shaping

JFK Concerned Over Sluggish U.S. Economy

By Douglas B. Cornell

Palm Beach, Fla. (P) — President-elect John F. Kennedy, speaking for himself and 3 key congressional leaders, voiced concern Tuesday with current "unemployment and the lack of vigor in the economy."

Kennedy listed as "of particular importance" congressional action on help for depressed areas and a higher minimum wage. And he rounded out a 5-point hurry-up legislative program with housing legislation, aid to education and medical care for the aged.

All of these, in greater or lesser degree, would prescribe pep pills for a national economy that shows some signs of ailing.

But Kennedy skirted around a news conference question on the possibility of emergency anti-recession legislation. He said a task force is at work on proposals and hasn't finished the job.

County Medical Society Suggests City Use Districts For Ambulances

The Lancaster County Medical Society recommended to the Lincoln Police Department Thursday evening that the city be divided into districts to put ambulance service closer to accidents.

At its annual meeting, the association adopted and approved the recommendation of its emergency co-ordinating committee which had been studying the problem.

The committee found that, at the present time there are 5 ambulance services in Lincoln responding to police calls for emergencies. In the last few months, 2 of these services moved to the eastern portion of the city, one to 48th and Vine and the other to 4300 O St.

It was felt by association members that the 2 ambulance services in the eastern portion of the city, Umberger and Roper's, should cover the east two-fifths of the city. The 3 services downtown, Wadlow's, Hodgman-Splain, and Tiernan's, would cover the west three-fifths of the city.

This would mean that the 2 ambulance services in the east two-fifths portion would be on call on alternate

THINGS ARE GOOD AT CHRISTMAS FOR YOUNG DOUBLE AMPUTEE

John Koca is going to "fare pretty well" this Christmas, Dr. Floyd A. Alcorn said Tuesday.

The Lincoln Orthopedic Hospital superintendent added that for John, 14-year-old North Platte double amputee, "everything's looking pretty good."

Hospitalized since both his legs were amputated in April, John has received many Christmas cards and letters from well-wishers, the doctor said.

The boy suffered extensive 3rd-degree and lesser burns in March when a gasoline can exploded in the family's back yard.

Several persons have written John asking him what he wants for Christmas, Dr. Alcorn added, and one letter had a $5 check with it.

The hospital's Christmas tree has added to John's Yule months. Those in the west according to areas in which accidents happen. It a patient does not express a choice of hospital, he should be taken to the accredited hospital in the district where the accident occurred.

Assistant Police Chief Orren Graves assured the committee that these areas could be determined easily from their map which records the location of accidents.

Limits Urged

It was further recommended that ambulances obey speed limits as prescribed in the city and stop for stop signs and signal lights. The committee felt, as displayed in large metropolitan areas such as New York, this procedure can save lives of pedestrians, other drivers, and the ambulance personnel. The risk to patients being transported is not increased in this manner either, the committee said.

Two other possibilities suggested as alternatives to the two-fifth-three-fifths division of the city were:

(1) Making no changes in the present procedure in which the ambulances are rotated on a monthly basis of being on call.

(2) Dividing the city into several districts and putting an ambulance service on call in each district constantly.

Airport Parking Problem Studied By County Board

A two-fold parking problem at the Municipal Airport is under study by the County Board.

The board indicated it probably will ban parking along the county road leading to the airport. Motorists have been parking along the road to avoid paying to park in the lot adjacent to the airport.

Board Chairman Rollin Bailey also said the airport restaurant is suffering because potential patrons do not like to pay for parking.

A plan whereby a purchase of $1 or more at the restaurant will eliminate the cost for parking is under study.

cheer, too. Dr. Alcorn said the boy was taken on a stretcher to see the tree.

"John smiled and beamed," he observed.

Physically, the boy has been better off since a recent operation in which more of his deteriorated upper leg's were amputated, the doctor said.

Merle Beattie Children Run For Home, Under Stopwatch

More than 630 Merle Beattie students ran from school at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, clocked at the furious pace of a block-per-minute.

This mad "race for home" was part of a Civil Defense evacuation plan for a school-to-home dispersal action termed "D-Day" by the students.

The action was adopted by the school PTA to acquire information about evacuation time needed for all the children.

Some youngsters arrived home in 3 minutes, clutching home arrival time slips to be filled out by parents in order to determine efficiency of the dispersal plan.

The project was reported to have been carried out with out any noted traffic or functional problems for any of the children, with, perhaps, one exception.

A primary department lass was among the first to bolt from the school doors and tear for home. After racing off nearly a block, she suddenly turned around and headed back to school.

When asked by a teacher if she had forgotten something, she said she had — the way home. The youngster had started out in the wrong direction.

West South Blaze Damage Extensive

Fire did extensive damage to two bedrooms and a hallway in the Walter E. Nickelson home at 1645 West South Tuesday noon. The blaze started in a closet, firemen said.

A high-pressure 300-gallon water pumper was sent to the scene 9 minutes after the first alarm. It was needed to extinguish the blaze completely; there are no hydrants near the house.

To get at milkweed nectar, an insect must become entangled in sticky, heavy masses of pollen. To leave, it must be strong enough to pluck free and carry a sizable load of pollen to the silks of the next flower visited.

Unicameral Vote Record Study Slated

A detailed analysis of the voting record of Legislature members will be compiled early next year by the Nebraska "Constitutional Conservatives" according to Earl T. Luff, president.

A registered nurse, Sister Mary Liberia, 74, of St. Elizabeth Hospital, who died Monday, has been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday at the hospital chapel.

A registered nurse, Sister Mary Liberia, celebrated her 50th anniversary with the Order of St. Francis in 1955.

Prior to coming to work as an X-ray technician at St. Elizabeth a year ago, she was the head of the X-ray department of St. Joseph Hospital in Omaha for 45 years.

Sister Mary Liberia was one of the organizers and a charter member of the Nebraska Society of X-ray technicians, as well as a member of the American Registry of X-ray Technologists.

She is survived by: sisters, Mrs. Andrew Ferencek of Steepleton, Pa., Mrs. John Vasko of Duquesne, Pa., and Miss Albina Kozjan of Philadelphia, Pa.

Faith Lutheran Will Put Council Setup In Effect

Faith Lutheran Church will put a new council-type administration into effect Jan. 1, 1961, according to the Rev. Edgar P. Schmidt, pastor.

The new administration was adopted at the church's annual business meeting and is to set up a council of 5 executive officers and 15 councilmen. The councilmen will be organized into the areas of worship, education, public relations, finance, and evangelism.

"Under the old administration," said Pastor Schmidt, "each board operates independently under the executive officers."

Leonard Johnston is president of the new administration.

Other churchmen picked to go into office Jan. 1 with Johnston are Dr. Theodore Roessler, vice president; Ralph Germeroth, recording secretary; Dale E. Schlesinger, and Daryl Irmer, financial secretary.

Councilmen: Dr. Paul Schlesinger, Robert Schulz, Henry Dorner Jr., Harvey Kintworth, Carl Hartman, LaMar Beaver, Henry Harms, Oscar Herman Jr., Raymond Judds, Eugene Lunger, Russell Dean Miller, Leon Oberbeck and Gilbert Reinke.

Should Be Worried

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Those members of the National Association of Manufacturers who expressed concern about the future of the nation have good cause for doing so. With thinking as fuzzy as theirs, anyone would be quite worried. If there was ever a gloomy report, the NAM has furnished one in its survey of members in the south central region. The one possible exception to this is Byron Dunn, president of the National Bank of Commerce of Lincoln, who discussed the agricultural picture.

The Lincoln banker expressed concern for agriculture and the steady stream of people leaving our farms. He said he was of the opinion that a change of administration will have little effect on conditions, but he hopes more aid will be given farmers by government. The only point that needs to be made in Dunn's case is the fact that the conditions of which he speaks are the result of eight years of agricultural mistakes on the part of the present Eisenhower administration in Washington. The question is whether he is as disgusted with the past as he is unconcerned of the future.

Completely out in left field was S. D. Whiteman of Hastings, president of the Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. It would be fine if he were right because many people believe the gas and oil depletion allowance of which he spoke should be cut. But it would be interesting to see his evidence to support the claim he made that the incoming administration has declared itself in favor of such cuts.

He further noted that the new administration has expressed sympathy toward a legislated national fuel policy. Both of these statements are a lot of bunk and might make one wonder just what it is Mr. Whiteman is after. He is certainly taking a peculiar approach to get what he apparently wants—erroneously and publicly aligning the administration against him.

President-elect John F. Kennedy has not said he wants the depletion allowance cut and there is no question that Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson stands firmly in favor of this special privilege. As for a legislated national fuel policy, Mr. Whiteman must have pulled that one out of a bad dream. But the real corker comes from Frederick H. Buchholz, president of the Omaha Steel Works. There is not much question about which side of the political fence he is on but there is some question as to where he has been in the past four or five years.

Needed District Changes

Nebraska legislators will be involved in their 1961 session with badly needed changes in two areas of public representation. The first will be the change of districts for the election of three rather than four members of the House of Representatives in Washington. Current debate centers on a choice, basically, between a north-south division of the state or an east-west division.

Any division of the state by a north-south line would be an abnormal split of historic interests and associations. As State Sen. John Munnell of Omaha has said, the natural division of the state has always been on a north of the Platte and south of the Platte basis. This is the normal recognition of historic boundaries, of transportation and of interests. It would be a sad mistake to make a congressional district split in defiance of all of these factors.

The other problem the Legislature will

Straying From First Principles

Upper Missouri Basin hydroelectric interests are asking a reallocation of water at the Dakota dams for the purpose of stabilizing power production at a better than present level. And as to be expected, the downstream navigation interests are in strong dissent. They want the water impounded for release during the navigation season.

And so it goes. The great multipurpose reclamation program has achieved its major purposes in a grand manner, but it has not been able to solve the problem of conflicting interests. The upstream and downstream factions are more at odds than ever.

It is a commentary on human nature. Before the basin dams were built the upper public power agencies had no electric power from that section of the Missouri. At the same time the downstream interests not only had no navigation control, but they also had periodic, devastating floods. The basin program accommodated them all. It brought floods under control and pro-

Although criticism of the American electoral college continues in both political parties and may prompt efforts in the coming congress for change, prudence counsels caution and great deliberation.

This is not to say that the electoral system is the best of all possible methods.

WASHINGTON — I don't know whether President Eisenhower is reading his mail face, the NAM has sought to charge it with the accumulated ills of the past eight years. Before the new administration has announced a single program or objective, the NAM has condemned it. If the organization honestly recognizes any of the perils which face the nation today, it completely refuses to deal with them with the slightest degree of impartiality. Their attitude is uncompromising, if not belligerent, and the reception they receive in the new administration on that basis will be no worse than they deserve.

But fortunately for the nation, neither political party in its national administration is generally as prejudiced as some of the many special groups which constitute the nation. This is always the salvation of any great country—it has men who are able to rise above the level of petty selfish interests and strict partisanship.

I know what's in the President's mail because I've been receiving carbon copies; plus a lot of other letters sent direct.

I also know from having spent two Christmas seasons with U.S. troops in Greenland how lonesome it can be in those out-of-the-way places without families, and what a difference families can make where they are permitted to live on a base.

Both from personal experience and from reading my Christmas mail I am sure that the finest Christmas present General Eisenhower could give several hundred thousand servicemen is to countermand his order separating families. There are various other ways of saving American dollars abroad—such as restricting tourist spending, curtailing duty-free tourist imports, and limiting overseas investments of American corporations which are

But this step alone would not solve the disproportionate representation we now have at the state level. The disparity between many districts is far too large to equalize with the addition of seven new members. No true equalization will be achieved without an enlargement of some of the presently small districts which have suffered a population loss in recent years. The entire state will suffer if this problem is ignored this session as it has been in the past.

Kennedy Team Emphasizes Men

WASHINGTON — At this stage, it appears that for women the new frontiers are the old frontiers.

President-elect John Kennedy has not included a woman in his top chain of command. What is much more interesting is that apparently he never even considered doing so. None of the nation's women leaders were summoned to Georgetown or Palm Beach for consideration or for their advice.

Women will not be helping to make policy in the cabinet. They are not so far represented in the White House staff, and it seems unlikely that they will be in any meaningful way.

The omission seems inconsistent on both practical and theoretical grounds.

Kennedy strove for a cabinet which is well balanced according to the normal political rules. He at least bowed in the direction of nearly every voting group in the country—except women. The most striking example was his offer of the postmaster generalship to Rep. William Dawson, 74, the respected but undistinguished Chicago Negro Democrat who is chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

The president-elect's highly intellectual and generally liberal outlook would also suggest that women of ability would be welcome in his administration. People holding such beliefs are as a rule widely tolerant in all directions.

It would not be surprising that a senator would work less with women's groups and so have a narrower acquaintance than a governor or mayor. But there is no indication that Kennedy con-

MARQUIS CHILDS

Right Man For AEC Is Problem

WASHINGTON — While President-elect Kennedy has filled his cabinet posts, his quest for men who must try to do the impossible is far from ended. In terms of the desperate needs of the hour it may be said really just to have begun.

Some of the positions still to be filled are far more important than certain of the traditional cabinet posts. For secretary of commerce, for example, Senator Kennedy has found in Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina an able public servant who readily fits the specifications of the office.

When it comes to the chairmanship of the Atomic Energy Commission the choice is more difficult. The present chairman, John A. McCone, is retiring not only from that office but also quite properly from the commission itself, although his term as a commissioner runs until 1963. Having had so much to do with staffing the commission and taking such a strong policy line, he could not very well stay on in a subordinate position.

There would seem to be advantage in selecting as the new chairman a man familiar with the field and who nevertheless has managed to stay clear of the quarrels that have embroiled the commission on many fronts in the past. This would not be easy, and especially since Robert McKinney, a New Mexico newspaper publisher, is said to be eager for the job. McKinney has been sharply critical of the Eisenhower administration's atoms-for-peace program.

He is close to Sen. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, chairman of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. In some ways this would be an advantage. But it would appear at the outset to commit him to the viewpoint of the Senate-House group when what is needed, above all, is a new look at atomic policy both on the civilian and the military side.

Nothing confronting the new president is more important than the question of a nuclear test ban which the retiring chairman has resisted. Kennedy said in his campaign he believed one more effort should be made and that effort should not be hampered by past prejudices. If it fails, then the outlook for negotiation in other areas is dim indeed.

Related to this whole vital, demanding question is the selection of the new president's science adviser. That post has been held by George B. Kistiakowski, who is said to have exerted a quiet influence in the direction of sanity and moderation as against those who would ignore all but the purely military demands of the Pentagon.

The selection here becomes especially important since Edward Teller, popularly identified as the "father of the H-bomb," has carried on a prolonged public attack on the concept of a test-ban agreement. Actually a great many nuclear physicists—perhaps the majority—believe it is essential to reach a test agreement if it can be done with a system of inspection and control that would represent the first break in Soviet secrecy.

They believe this should be done even if it involves some risk of cheating in the first place.

The most articulate spokesman of that viewpoint has been Hans Bethe, one of the pioneers in the development of the atomic bomb and a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee. Recently in an Atlantic Monthly article he made the most comprehensive and knowledgeable statement in the debate thus far in favor of an agreement. Dr. Bethe concluded:

"What is the alternative (to an agreement)? Suppose we resume tests only in the area of small weapons. Then we could be sure that it would not take the Russians very long to reach our present, very high-level technology in this field. But, it will be argued by Dr. Teller and his associates, in the meantime we can also make progress. Clearly, we could if we resumed nuclear tests. However, we have already gone far enough so that very little we can do in the future will be of great military significance."

Bethe says, out of his broad background of classified knowledge, that if President Eisenhower had been bold enough to accept the Soviet offer to stop testing beginning in 1956 the United States would have thereby gained an advantage. When their offer was rejected, the Soviets set out on a series of tests of massive hydrogen bombs to catch up with this country which had already tested at least half a dozen.

If the outstanding differences in the prolonged nuclear talks can be compromised and a test-ban treaty agreed to at Geneva in the spring, the struggle over ratification of that treaty will be of extraordinary moment. The President, in persuading the Senate, will need at his elbow scientists of the very first rank in the nuclear field who will speak with knowledge and conviction for the President. This will also be the requirement for the chairman of the AEC, since a division within the President's own family would be fatal.

Lincoln, Neb.

Dashing off the last 20 Christmas cards, hustling (yet isolated) in downtown crowds, pushing Junior into Santa's lap—is this what the "noble aggregate of 'self-evident truths'" has evolved to be? The real barbarian doesn't wield an ax or an H-bomb, nor is he even aware, perhaps, of his plight; yet he and his high priests have created a climate of doubt and bewilderment in which clarity of purpose has become so dim that our very foundations are shaken.

The Founding Fathers knew what they meant by liberty, by law, and by God—but do we? Freedom can survive only if we are aware of our goals and our enemies. First, our founders spoke collectively when they said, "We hold these truths . . ."

Since then, however, the individual has become an end unto himself and is no longer aware of his duties to society or its ideals.

Secondly, we forget that "only a virtuous people can be free." We have become so obsessed with the small-souled purpose of survival that we forget the major threat is moral, not political.

As Dr. Kissinger said, "The Soviet power center has made gains which were not justified by the relation of forces but were largely due to the inward uncertainty of their victims." Every day magazines point out that we are already engaged in World War III, and losing.

This is not a time for despair but a time for action. We must unite, collectively, and strive for acts of moral purpose on all fronts. Christianity has not been tried and found wanting; it has been found difficult and not tried.

underground perforated clay tile. Every year there is enough water lost by runoff in the area of Ft. Robinson to supply water for irrigation of all the parks and recreation spots that will be built there. It is just a matter of a little engineering, a little ingenuity and a lot of urge to provide a practical method of watering. Once these tiles have been laid, they will last forever without repair or replacement. Grates can be set in paved highways and the runoff down these highways can be dropped into catch basins and from there to the underground tile, and thus carried for miles in every direction. The cost of all this water is free, there is no attendant necessary, no labor cost.

Trees watered in this way will grow as large in five years as trees starved for moisture will grow in 40. Tree planters have become discouraged in planting trees only to see them die for lack of moisture. Nebraska could have forests in knowing how to meet this need.

Each year for several years the National Safety Council has issued an appeal addressed to industrial and business executives to keep the cork in the bottle at the office Christmas party. The Council has authentic statistics which show that more than half of all the Christ-

This committee surely can do less than endorse the Council's appeal. In sheer desperation, the situation has become one of fighting for survival in the midst of some people's determination to have their fling regardless of the cost or the consequences.

If there must be a party, why not include the entire family and then keep the social gathering dry. Those who believe in the alcohol-free way of life and do not tolerate drinking of alcoholic beverages should accept our congratulations. They will be helping to keep Christ in Christmas.

Louisiana Chiefs May Face Contempt Citations

New Orleans (AP)—The federal government Tuesday asked that Louisiana Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock and two other state officials be held in contempt of federal court for interfering with the operation of New Orleans schools.

U.S. Atty. M. Hepburn Many filed the motions contending that Aycock, Speaker of the State House of Representatives Thomas Jewell and State Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson acted in defiance of the court order.

Many's motions said the 3 were in contempt of the court order, forbidding interference with the schools in an integration dispute, when they refused to pay employees at two schools integrated by federal order.

Charges

The motion against the 3 charges that they have "failed and refused to make, draw, sign and issue salary checks to employees at Wiliam Frantz Elementary School and McDonogh No. 19 . . . with the effect of interfering with the public schools of Orleans Parish by the Orleans Parish School Board pursuant to the prior orders" of a federal court.

At the same time, Many filed another motion asking that Louisiana Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr. be enjoined from his refusal to certify the re-election of Matthew R. Sutherland to the Orleans Parish School Board. Sutherland ran as a moderate on integration and easily defeated three segregationists.

The state legislature passed an emergency bill, signed into law on election day Nov. 8, withdrawing the right of New Orleans voters to elect their own school board members.

Under Order

Jackson is under one federal court order to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court.

Jackson declared a public school holiday Nov. 14, the day integration began in the two New Orleans public schools.

In another development Tuesday, two New Orleans city councilmen attacked the plan to boost the state sales tax by one cent to provide private and segregated schools.

Councilman Fred Cassibry called the proposed one-cent hike, due for a floor vote in the House of Representatives Wednesday, "a harsh, unfair tax on the people of Louisiana who are least able to pay."

Banjo Liar

Councilman Theodore Hickey called Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, who is backing the tax hike, "a banjo-playing liar" as he blasted the attempt to "raise taxes in the name of segregation."

The $28 million tax proposal would be used to establish a program of grants to children for a private, segregated school system.

At the two schools integrated by federal court order, there was little in the way of developments. At William Frantz, 8 white children and one Negro girl went to classes. At McDonogh No. 19, only the 3 Negro girls in the first grade went to school. This has been the pattern at both schools for year—1961—that is.

Measures

State Sen. Adrian Duplantier of New Orleans said he would introduce 3 measures to provide money for a school grant-in-aid program through curtailment of state spending.

Duplantier said the sales tax increase as proposed by the Davis administration was not necessary.

"As I view it," he said, "there is no relationship whatsoever between segregation and increased taxes."

RAVENOUS WOLVES, LYNX PLAGUING SANTA'S HERDS

By Lars Porne

Stockholm (UPI) — The wolves were playing scrooge Tuesday in the snowy land of Santa's reindeer.

Ravenous wolf packs and bloodthirsty lynx have ravaged the reindeer herds of frozen Lapland in the north of Sweden. The slaughter is the worst in memory, government officials said.

The Lapps keep guns and knives close at hand to protect Dancer and Prancer and Donder and Blitzen. This year, the Lapps reported, the native predators have been reinforced by wolf packs from Russian Siberia.

For the wolves — Eastern and Western — the hunting is good. Unusually heavy snowfalls have driven the Lapps' valuable reindeer herds from the safer, mountain area of Lapland to the valleys in search of food. There the wolves and lynx lurk.

Wolves and lynx do not kill only from hunger. They slaughter entire herds in their lust to kill.

But the Swedish wolf is a coward when it comes to man. It dashes for cover when a Lapp appears.

The lynx is a dog-sized yellow and black cat. It is bloodthirsty and is called the "Nordic panther."

A Lapp recently reported finding 30 of his reindeer killed by wolves. He estimated the number of wolves at 4 by counting the tracks.

Two 19 inch television sets valued at $450, one 17 inch set valued at $160 and a clock-radio valued at $22.50 were reported taken.

Gene Eaton Purchases Control Of Iowa Bank And Shopping Center

Gene C. Eaton, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, has purchased controlling interest in a Bettendorf, Ia., bank and shopping center.

Eaton announced that he is "not planning to sever my Lincoln connections" but will spend considerable time at present in looking after his interests in Bettendorf.

W. E. Bettendorf, leading industrialist in the eastern Iowa city, announced Tuesday that Eaton has been elected president of the Bettendorf Bank and Trust Co., a position formerly held by Bettendorf, who will become chairman of the board.

Purchase price for Eaton's interest in the Bettendorf Bank and adjoining Plaza Shopping Center in the downtown area, was not revealed.

Bettendorf said he was "pleased to have Mr. Eaton associated with the community because of his banking background and his demonstrated interest in community affairs."

Eaton, who is 36, has had 15 years of widely varied banking experience.

Active in many Lincoln civic affairs, Eaton is presently president of the Lincoln Community Chest. He is past president of the Lincoln Lions Club, and received the "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" award from the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, in 1958 for his "leadership ability, personal and business progress and contribution to community welfare."

He also headed the United Fund campaign, was vice chairman of the Lancaster County Chairman for Crippled Children and Adults, and is treasurer of the Children's Zoo Assn.

A University of Nebraska graduate, he served in the U.S. Navy Air Force.

He, his wife, Marjorie and their 5 children live at 2045 Harwood.

The shopping center, located in the downtown area of the community of 15,000, houses about a dozen retail establishments, a 20-lane bowling alley, cocktail lounge and restaurant, and offices, with adjoining parking areas.

The Bettendorf Bank, a state bank, has total assets of approximately $6.5 million.

Other Bettendorf Bank officers will include Edwin Lantau, a member of the board of directors, who will remain as vice president and cashier, and assistant cashiers John Plank and Jack Grothusen.

Eaton commented that he was "delighted to assume a place in the Bettendorf business community" and that he will continue to provide progressive banking service to the area.

Barricades Guard Quarry Near Roca

County Commissioner Ralph Harlan reported Tuesday that a county road detour at the Schwarck Quarries near Roca is now protected by newly installed barricades.

Harlan said the new, stronger barricades protect motorists from going off the road into a quarry pit. He said quarry operator J. D. Schwarck has done a fine job in erecting the barricades.

Soviets, Hungary Sign Trade Pact

Moscow — The Soviet Union and Communist Hungary signed a new agreement calling for 2.5 billion rubles in trade, a 25 per cent increase over last year.

The Soviet Union has declared that the new ruble, to become effective Jan. 1, will be worth $1.11. The current ruble is officially valued at 25 cents.

OLD FASHIONED CHRISTMAS

BY PAUL ENGLE

 to be celebrated. The persecuted Christians in the catacombs under Rome drew pictures on the walls showing the Adoration of the Magi. The observance of a life-creating event brought a renewal of life to the participants. It was said that on the first Christmas trees bloomed which never bore flowers in winter. In Alsace it was said that a rose blooms not in its season but on Christmas, for it is from the stock on which Mary hung her Baby's swaddling clothes on the flight into Egypt.

It was in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea that Jesus was laid. The legend says that Joseph came to England (bringing the Holy Grail), planted his staff, and died. The staff grew to a thorn tree, from which slips were planted in the neighborhood. They always bloomed at Christmas.

In Germany there is an account of a forester's hut in a storm on Christmas Eve. A knock is heard at the door, and an exhausted child enters. Little Hans gives the stranger his bed. In the morning the family was wakened by the singing of choirs of angels and the little guest was transfigured. It was the Christ-Child, who broke a branch from a fir tree and set it in the earth, saying, "This is my gift to you. This tree shall always bear its fruit at Christmas."

In the Lower Rhine land clogs of wood were put out by children for Sanktaklas, or St. Nicholas, along with hay for his horse. St. Nicholas once gave three bags of gold to a merchant who could not marry off his daughters because they had no dowry. Hence the three golden balls of the pawn-broker's sign as symbols of the protection St. Nicholas gave to merchants.

Tree of Life

In medieval times the legend of Adam and Eve was celebrated by a procession in the streets. Adam carried the Tree of Life hung with apples. The green tree defied winter devils, and burning juniper was used to chase away demons. A tree would be hung upside down from the ceiling and decorated.

In France as in other countries the Yule log was always ignited by a piece from the previous year's log, and wine was spilled on it as a blessing. Grain would be planted in little dishes on Dec. 4; if it sprouted abundantly by Christmas the crops would be good. Sheaves of wheat would be tied upon the house. The children would build the Christ-Child's creche from stones, branches, moss and lichens. The cat would be given all it could eat, for if it mewed on Christmas Day it was bad luck. The Day was called Noel because it brought good news (nouvelles).

In England Christmas was a time of continual conviviality. Amateur players called "mummers" (from the masks they wore) went around doing entertainments and little plays in the streets. They were full of such cheerful greetings as:

"A merry Christmas and a happy new year,

"Your pockets full of money and your cellar full of beer."

In Coventry an actor in a play who represented God in "The Creation" received 3 shillings, 4 pence. Judas, properly enough, received only 4 pence, but was paid another 4 pence for crowing like a rooster, the first time that Judas also made the noise announcing his own betrayal.

The Real Christmas

But the real Christmas was not (is not) the merely gay, the dinners with "pies of carps' tongues," the Elizabethan in a sack called "Love freed from Ignorance and Folly." It was

McFarland Asks Ruling Reversal

Robert D. McFarland, Morris County Judge, asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to reverse the district court decision finding him guilty of contempt of court.

McFarland was found guilty of contempt of district court by Judge Albert W. Crites, and served a jail term, in what attorneys believe is one of the most complicated cases in recent Nebraska history.

The conviction of McFarland was during district court proceedings against Paul E. Rhodes, Bridgeport attorney, who was charged with arson. Rhodes was also involved in a case before the county court.

McFarland was charged with attempting to obstruct the proceedings of the Rhodes case by issuing a "bench warrant and complaint" to bring Judge Crites before his, McFarland's, court.

McFarland's warrant charged Crites with disobeying lawful processes.

McFarland said Crites ordered the confinement of Rhodes in an arrangement that was contrary to law. In his brief filed Monday, McFarland's attorney, Dwight Griffiths of Aurora, said a judge is immune from liability for his judicial acts, and is not amenable to contempt proceedings in another court for that which he does judicially.

He added that the district court's jurisdiction in the Rhodes arson case was not absolute.

ASK— Dorothy Draper

What do you see when you look out of YOUR living room (or bedroom) window? I am amazed at the number of people who never bother to look out. And still more amazed at prospective home builders who become so intent in planning the interior of their home, and thinking how it's going to look from the outside, they never think about looking OUT from the inside.

From my living room window I love to watch the two flags wave in the breeze from the building across the street. I enjoy watching the city birds flirt with the branches of the small maple trees that line our street. I like to keep track of the bright red geraniums and polished ivy that top the planters on their high poles.

If you are planning to build, try to arrange to leave that white birch tree or that low branched crooked old apple tree or the clump of yellow daisies. When you are alone, it's pleasant to have a friendly tree or a bright clump of flowers to keep you company. They never talk back, but seem to try to assure you that "all's right with the world."

Mrs. J. D. asks:

"We bought a small home and need help in furnishing the living room. It measures 12x18 and has recently been painted sandalwood, including the woodwork. The ceiling is a bone white. Carpet is pebble beige. I have a nutmeg sofa and need twin chairs. Also drapes and lamps. This will be a room that will be lived in a great deal, and would love to have it as charming as possible."

Dear Mrs. J. D.:

With your color scheme the twin chairs would look doubly pretty in either a print or plaid in a combination of nutmeg, black, yellow or orange and white. Draperies using the same colors or pure white textured fabric, and lamps with white shades would make your room look as charming as you want it to be.

Mrs. E.B. asks:

"Will you please tell me what color rug to use in my living room. The sectional is turquoise and white tweed. Platform rocker, gold tweed and one occasional chair is beige. Walls are provincial gold. Drapes and lamps are plain white. Please do not suggest plain turquoise because I have children."

Dear Mrs. E.B.:

I should think a turquoise, black and white tweed rug would be practical for you and would prove a friendly choice with your color scheme.

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

Most hands played by declarer are of a simple sort. They do not require advanced knowledge or heavy thinking for the best result to be obtained. Being so numerous, such hands constitute the bulk of what amounts to good dummy play, and the player who consistently fares well on the simple hands, avoiding errors in them, is well on the way to becoming a first-class declarer.

Examine this hand which illustrates a principle that is sometimes violated. West led a club and continued with another which declarer ruffed.

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is very jealous. My wife doesn't give me any trouble, but my girl friend checks every move I make. She calls all over town tracking me and hangs around the hall when we have Union meetings. I don't know how many people she has watching me. I would like to get rid of her but she sticks like flypaper. I am 37 and she is 24 and a hot-tempered, suspicious Latin-American, if that helps you any. She has threatened to kill me if I look at any woman outside my wife and I think she would do it. Can I get any help from the Law?

WANTS OUT

DEAR WANTS: The "Law" is pretty busy protecting its law-abiding citizens. You get no sympathy from me. He who feasts excessively on hot tamales should expect to suffer from indigestion.

DEAR ABBY: Admittedly, I am not the brightest student in our high school, but I would like to know why, if people are so interested in education of their youth, they allow thick-headed football coaches to masquerade as teachers of math, science, literature, etc.

One of my teachers is a swell coach, but he knows less about his subject than some of the students. I heard he went through college on an athletic scholarship and flunked all his subjects. THIS IS A TEACHER?

JUST INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: I hope you are interested enough to investigate your coach's teaching credentials. Be prepared to be thrown for a 50-yard loss. One who has "flunked all his subjects" is not teaching anywhere.

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I sent 25¢ for a celestial map of the planets. It was offered by a reputable manufacturer of canned goods. However, I made the mistake of writing for it in our son's name. Today he received literature from a publishing company urging him to get out and sell their comic books. I refused to allow him to do this, however, since he is only 6 years old.

Abby, what can be done about this selling of children's names to such companies? What assurance do parents have that this will not lead to other types of literature we don't want in our homes? Must we simply forbid our children to send for anything?

CONSTANT READER

DEAR READER: If you receive ANYTHING in the mail for which you did not send, including advertising for questionable literature, send it to POST-MASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON 25, D.C. And be sure to enclose the envelope in which it came.

We Hear That

Newcomers to Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vittitow and their children, Regina and Jay, II, who moved into their home at 2805 Randolph, on Monday. Originally from Dallas, the Vittitow family most recently resided in El Paso, Tex., where Mr. Vittitow, associated with the AMC ballistic missiles division, served as representative for SAC at Biggs Air Force Base.

Arriving on Sunday from their home in Two Harbors, Minn., were Mrs. Robert F. Kidder, Deborah, Kim and Robert, who will be the holiday guests of Mr. Kidder's mother, Mrs. Helen Kidder. Mr. Kidder will arrive in Lincoln late this week in time to be with his family for Christmas. And completing the family group will be Mrs. Kidder's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Kidder and their children, Susan, Patricia, Mike and Jeffrey, of Quincy, Ill., who returned to Lincoln this week to make their home at 3330 Dudley.

MRS. LOUIS FRANKLIN LEDERER

lop Sabrina neckline, sparkled with sequins, and the lace continued into a full overskirt ending in deep points over the bouffant skirt of tulle. Her veil of English illusion was held by a pearl crown, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with white roses.

The couple will reside in Lincoln where the bridegroom is a senior at the University of Nebraska College of Engineering.

Wonderful dinner. But you may pay for it with Acid Upset, so keep TUMS relief at hand. 3-roll pack, only 30¢.

MRS. ARTHUR LYNN DICK

The chancel of the Oneonta Congregational Church in South Pasadena, Calif., was decorated with fir boughs, crimson poinsettias and white chrysanthemums on Tuesday evening, Dec. 20, for the marriage of Miss Patricia Lucille Turner, daughter of Mrs. Miriam Turner of Glendale, Calif., and Dr. C. L. Turner, Napa, Calif., to Arthur Lynn Dick, son of Dr. and Mrs. Everett Dick of Lincoln. The 8 o'clock service was solemnized by Dr. Jack Provansha of the staff of the College of Medical Evangelists, Loma Linda, Calif.

A former student at Glendale Union Academy and La Sierra College, the bride is a member of the nursing staff of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. Mr. Dick is a graduate of Union College, Lincoln, and is attending the College of Medical Evangelists.

Frocked identically in crimson velveteen with matching head bandage and carrying white muffs trimmed with poinsettias and holly were Miss Janice Koerber, Oakland, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Lola Purdey, Miss Sandi Couron, both of Glendale; and Miss Patricia Tallman, Santa Ana, Calif.

Harold Reeder of Lincoln served as best man, and the ushers were Richard Boggs, Glendale; Don Dick, Arlington, Calif.; and Barry Siebenlist, Los Angeles.

The bride's gown of white peau de soie was fashioned in the princess mode. The sculptured bodice was designed with a squared neckline and abbreviated sleeves, complemented by long gloves of the silk, and the widely-flaring skirt continued into a chapel train.

A crown of pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried white orchids and stephanotis.

Quesada Poked For Crash Talk

Washington (P) — Faulty ground navigation equipment — wild radio signals within an airplane — a brief but critical lapse in radar surveillance — these were mentioned Tuesday as possible factors involved in the collision of two airlines over New York City last Friday.

The dead totaled 135.

Suggestions of possible failure of omnirange radio navigation equipment at Preston, N.J., and of a possible gap in radar coverage came from W.A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines.

Transistor?

John R. McDonald, an official of the Air Line Pilots Association, asked ALPA investigators to look, among other things, into the bare chance that signals from an electronic device carried aboard by a passenger — such as a transistor radio or a dictation machine — may have

Truckers Get 'Half' In Bid For Rate Hike

The Nebraska Railway Commission reported Tuesday it has granted part of a request by truckers for an increase in the minimum charge for shipments.

A commission spokesman said the new rates amount to "about half" what the truckers sought.

The application, by 18 motor carriers, was originally for a minimum of $3.06 to replace the present graduated scale. The request was later amended to $2.50 for shipments within 40 miles, and $3.05 for shipments beyond 40 miles.

The minimum rates granted by the commission, to be effective Jan. 1, were as follows: $2 up to 55 miles, $2.25 from 56 to 195 miles, $2.50 from 196 to 295 miles, $2.75 from 296 to 395 miles, and $3 for 400 miles or over.

In other action, the commission granted authority for the sale of major assets of the Cuming County Independent Telephone Co. to the Cuming County Telephone Co., providing the transfer is made on book value rather than appraised value.

Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. of Omaha was authorized to revise its local exchange tariff covering the suburban territory near Yankton, S.D.

The General Telephone Co. of Nebraska, Columbus, was given approval of a base rate area boundary for Heartwell.

Governor Hides Tears

Montgomery, Ala. (P) — A grateful schoolgirl, threatened with blindness, saw a dream come true Tuesday — a longed-for meeting with the governor who once extended a helping hand to bring her family together.

Gov. John Patterson, joking to hide the tears, welcomed 14-year-old Wyona Griffith to his office and thanked her for a pair of cufflinks she brought him as a Christmas gift.

"I sure appreciate that," the governor said. "You're mighty nice to give me a Christmas present."

Wyona, almost overcome with emotion herself, replied simply, "I think it's a privilege I can see you."

The Attalla, Ala., 7th-grader's condition attracted nationwide attention earlier this year when she asked Patterson in a letter to help find her father a job in Alabama so he could be with her.

She said he had to leave his home to find work and was employed at that time in West Virginia.

"It's so lonesome without a daddy. It's almost like he's dead," she wrote.

The governor sent the request to the State Employment Service and a short time later the father, James C. Griffith, returned home to work in a steel plant at Gadsden, near Attalla.

Two weeks ago Patterson received a letter from Wyona's mother asking if he could find time in his busy schedule to see the girl.

"Not a day passes by that she doesn't mention you," Mrs. Griffith wrote, "but I'm afraid if we keep putting off the trip, it will be too late."

Christmas Tree Holds Grim Light

Johnstown, Pa. (P) — A scrawny, 18-foot high community Christmas tree stands in the nearby town of Emrich.

The tree is decorated with tin cans, lids and other junk. Beside the tree is a sign that reads:

"A depressed town. Please, Santa, bring us some jobs. Merry Xmas to all."

The town's 775 residents lost their only industry, a coal mine, 6 years ago.

License Bureau

Chief Saathoff

Goes To State

County license bureau chief Ralph Saathoff has resigned to accept a position with the State Dept. of Motor Vehicles.

Saathoff, 44, has been an employee of the Lancaster County treasurer's office since 1947 and has been license bureau chief since 1955. He said he will work in the pro-ration and reciprocity office of the state motor vehicle department.

Saathoff said his salary will be more than the $420 a month he receives from the county, but declined to be specific.

Living Cost Soars

Mexico City (P) — The National Confederation of Chambers of Commerce says the cost of living jumped 16% in Mexico this year.

Chamber Of Commerce Board Endorses Urban Renewal

Members of the board of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce Tuesday unanimously endorsed the City Council program for urban renewal, noting the importance of such a project in attracting new industry.

The resolution was proposed by outgoing President William Gold, who noted that the Chamber favored a vote on the urban renewal issue by the people at the May city election.

At a dinner meeting and installation of new directors, the board also heard the incoming Chamber president endorse a program "to continue a new lease on life" for the progressive programs started by retiring President Gold.

The new president, E.N. (Jack) Thompson, promised further efforts in the fields of attraction of industry, expansion of airport facilities, schools, and adjustment of freight rates for the area.

Thompson also emphasized the importance of "ironing out" the Interstate Highway problem involving the access route into Lincoln.

New directors who were introduced at the Tuesday dinner included Willard Townsend, elevated to the board because of his position as second vice president of the Chamber; Chauncey Barney, George Bastian, Lloyd Beans, Roger Cunningham, Col. L.D. Densmore, Harold Salisbury and Duncan Sowles.

Appointment of Marlo Burg of Waverly as a county director succeeding Charles Tyrrell, who resigned, was announced earlier.

Two weeks ago Patterson received a letter from Wyona's mother asking if he could find time in his busy schedule to see the girl.

"Not a day passes by that she doesn't mention you," Mrs. Griffith wrote, "but I'm afraid if we keep putting off the trip, it will be too late."

A 26-year-old Lincoln woman who police said attempted suicide by taking barbiturate sleeping pills was listed in satisfactory condition late Tuesday at a local hospital. A psychiatrist told police the woman was suffering from depression.

Wrists Slashed

An 18-year-old girl police jailed in connection with a morals investigation slashed her wrist in her cell Tuesday.

After treatment at a local hospital, she was returned to jail.

Police reported a similar incident occurred on the school grounds recently when several bags of cement were torn and scattered.

Police said apprehension of 4 juveniles cleared up property damage done to about 40 bags of insulation material stacked outside Meadow Lane School at 72nd and Vine.

Lewis Harris New President Of Norden Labs; Dr. E. C. Jones Becomes Chairman Of Board

Lewis E. Harris, 50, Tuesday was named president of Norden Laboratories, Inc., to succeed Dr. E. C. Jones who will become chairman of the board of the Lincoln veterinary biological pharmaceutical firm.

Harris, whose appointment is effective January 1, is director of Norden's Pharmaceutical Division. The veterinary firm is a subsidiary of Smith Kline and French Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa.

In announcing the promotions, SK&F President Walter A. Mumms said the chairman of the board post to which Dr. Jones will advance is a new one.

Dr. Jones, who received his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree at Kansas State University in 1916, was awarded a distinguished service citation from the University in 1958 in recognition of his contributions to the field of veterinary medicine.

Harris received both bachelor and master degrees from the University of Nebraska. He joined the Norden staff in 1934 as consultant, was named director of Pharmaceutical Research and Control in 1939, and in 1951 was named director of the firm's Pharmaceutical Division and Secretary of the corporation.

Harris is past-president of the Nebraska Public Health Association, the Nebraska Chemical Society, and the American Council of Independent Laboratories. He is the author of articles in the fields of chemistry, pharmaceutical research and production, and scientific crime detection.

Harris Dr. Jones

their two sons reside at 1414 Ridgeway Road.

Dr. Jones entered private veterinary practice in 1916. In 1919 he organized and became president of the Platte Valley Serum Company, Grand Island, a post he held until 1934 when the company merged with Norden Laboratories.

He became sales manager, vice president, and director of the Laboratories before being named president of the organization in 1954.

In 1950, Dr. Jones was appointed by the Secretary of Agriculture to the federal agency regulating the handling of anti-hog cholera serum and hog cholera virus. From 1956 to 1958 he was chairman of the agency.

He is past president and director of Nebraska State Veterinary Medical Association and Associated Veterinary Laboratories, Inc., and has been active in the American Veterinary Medical Association and U.S. Livestock Sanitary Association. Other memberships include the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, Lincoln University Club and the Lincoln Country Club.

At Kansas State University he was a member of Alpha Psi scholastic fraternity, Delta Tau Delta fraternity was captain of the varsity basketball team, and all-conference selection.

He served two years in the Army Veterinary Corps, attaining the rank of major.

The new Norden Laboratories building on Highway 34 just west of 1st is expected to be occupied by next April. The pharmaceutical department and offices will remain at the downtown location.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

As an old packer (who threw the diamond hitch), I start my travel packing a week in advance. "Attention to small details marks the executive mind," says Fortune magazine.

I start a week in advance. And it DRIVES EVERYBODY CRAZY!

That is executive packing. Small attention to details. However, I have gone a step further than the TWA lady who wrote the book.

I lay out all my things. I discard ruthlessly. But—do it a week in advance. This way you can have a whole week to examine and plan what you want to take. It has worked out splendidly for me. And I don't mind passing it along as freely as the airline.

The best place to lay out your things (a week in advance) is the dining room table.

By laying out your things on the dining room table, you can SEE what you are doing. There is good lighting over the dining room table.

You pack it all in at the last possible moment. "Jounce on the middle, son. That's it. I've got my end!"

What do you find? Over on a chair? Just ALL of your shoes, that's all. "Because they had to be moved. Shoes on the table! The idea!"

The problem for the executive mind is we have such non-executive minds around us. And no booklet written has solved how to shut them up without forcing.

Nokomis, Ill. (AP) — Jim Tosetti, a Post Office employee, started saving twine 4 years ago and estimates he now has about 7 miles wrapped in a ball weighing more than 53 pounds. Tosetti says he is often asked what he plans to do with the string. "I usually say that when I retire I'm going to start unrolling it at the Post Office and live at the point where the string runs out."

Congressional Investigators Accuse Agencies Of Laxity

Washington (UPI) — Congressional staff investigators have accused two big government agencies of laxity and inefficiency harmful to public welfare and have alleged possible misconduct by some agency personnel.

The accusations, it was learned Tuesday night, are contained in a report prepared by the professional staff of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee. Principal targets for criticism are the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The subcommittee, over the protests of some of its members, formally accepted the report at a secret meeting last Friday and directed that it be made public Wednesday.

Rep. Steven B. Derouin, R-N.Y., one of those protesting against making the report public, denounced it as "unfair, unjudicial and beneath the dignity of a congressional committee supposed to be seeking the facts."

Innuendoes

Derouin said the report is "full of innuendoes" and contended that it "isn't very American for the committee to make the report public without first holding hearings to determine whether the charges and allegations are true and give the people concerned their day in court."

The staff report hit hardest at the CAB, which regulates commercial aviation, and the ICC, which supervises truckers and other surface carriers. Neither of these two independent agencies was the subject of a subcommittee hearing.

There was no immediate comment from ICC or CAB sources pending examination of the report.

In addition to lashing those two agencies, the 256-page report made a sweeping review of the subcommittee's series of headline-making inquiries over the past two years.

Other Scandals

These included investigations into TV quiz show rigging, the payola scandals and charges of back-door influencing of the federal power commission.

Among recommendations to strengthen the government's independent agencies, the report urgently suggested that the new Congress begin hearings at the earliest possible date on proposals to license and regulate TV and radio networks.

Bills to carry out this objective were rejected by Congress last summer on grounds there had been no hearings to consider views of either opponents or advocates of the legislation.

Among other things, the report accused the ICC of laxity in its regulating the Interstate Dress Carriers, Inc., a New York trucking firm specializing in hauling garments.

The report was sharply critical of the ICC regulations, "Interstate has in past years been granted additional operating rights by the ICC."

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., first touched on the Interstate case during a two-hour public hearing last August. At the time, Harris said there was information suggesting possible corruption in connection with ICC.

Poked CAB

The report was sharply critical of the CAB for both its practice in handling cases taken before it by the airlines and also in its investigation of airline crashes.

The subcommittee said its investigations indicate that "the board's investigations and its findings of probable cause in air crashes are conditioned on the effect such findings may have on the promotion of civil aeronautics."

The report added that it would be more in the public interest "to place as much, if not greater, emphasis on its responsibility for the promotion of safety in air commerce."

Blue Named Chief Deputy County Atty.

The appointment of William D. Blue as chief deputy county attorney for County Atty.-elect Paul Douglas was approved Tuesday by the County Board.

Blue, who has been serving as a deputy county attorney since April, 1959, will receive $8,700 a year. This is the same salary Douglas now receives for the chief deputy's post.

County Atty. Elmer Scheels was elected to a district judgeship and Douglas to the county attorney's post at the November elections.

The other deputy county attorney in the office is Bernard Wishnow.

MECHANIZATION BLAMED FOR NEGROES OUSTER

Memphis, Tenn. (UPI) — Witnesses testified Tuesday that Negro sharecroppers were being forced from a West Tennessee county because they tried to vote. The defense claimed farm mechanization was the cause.

The conflict came during a hearing on a request for a federal injunction to prevent 37 white landowners in Haywood County from evicting 300 Negroes who farmed their lands.

The Justice Department, citing the civil rights act of 1957, claims the eviction notices resulted from the Negroes' desire to vote.

Judge Marion S. Boyd adjourned the hearing until Wednesday, when the defense is expected to put witnesses on the stand. The defense has not yet presented its case.

The civil rights division claims the eviction notices, timed for the end of the year, were mailed shortly after Haywood County opened its registration books to Negroes for probably the first time this century.

The conflict was focused in testimony of James Avery, 48-year-old father of 3.

Avery said that shortly after registering he received a letter from his landlord "that he didn't think he could give me another crop on the farm." The landlord is T. Crowder Chapman Jr.

Under cross examination, Avery said his equipment was 4 mules and that he owned no machinery. "Don't you know Mr. Chapman has gone in for modern machinery?" asked a defense lawyer, who added that Chapman could not afford to get less than a top crop from his property.

Avery protested: "But I make just as much cotton with mules as they do with machinery."

Mrs. Sara Lemmons, who runs a clothing store, said she attended a meeting on "what could be done about Negroes who registered."

She testified that one list contained the names of charter members of the Haywood County Civic and Welfare League, formed by Negroes to push voter registration. She said some of the white defendants told her not to sell or give credit to those on the list.

Fight Date Denied By Feature Sports

Miami, Fla. (P) — The head of Feature Sports, Inc., says no decision has been reached on a date or location for the 3rd heavyweight championship bout between Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson.

The Miami News asked Bill Fugazy, president of the organization which holds a contract for the match, for com-

Schloredt Worries Gophers

Pasadena, Calif. (P) — Bob Schloredt, a nearly forgotten football hero who steered Washington to its Rose Bowl victory a year ago, is worrying Minnesota.

The national champions began unusual twice-daily workouts Tuesday and laid heavy stress on pass defense, a possible tipoff on what the Gophers expect in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

"We expect Schloredt to be ready to go in top form, but we know also that Bob Hivner is a fine quarterback who could hurt us just as much," said Gopher coach Murray Warrath.

A Schloredt in pink condition, however, figures to cause Minnesota more anxiety, especially a Schloredt with the same pressure-playing flair of his All-America season, 1959.

The one-eyed quarterback broke his collarbone in mid-season this year and it was Hivner who led the Huskies down the stretch.

Rice Off Early

Houston, Tex. (P) — The Rice Owls worked in a whipping north wind Tuesday, and coach Jess Neely liked the hard scrimmage so well he released the team for the Christmas vacation two days early.

The workout was the toughest thus far in the Owls' preparation for Mississippi and the Sugar Bowl football game Jan. 2.

Hogs Finish Drills

Fayetteville, Ark. (P) — The Arkansas Razorbacks, Southwest Conference football champions, finished preliminary drills Tuesday for their Cotton Bowl game with Duke Jan. 2.

Coach Frank Broyles dismissed his Porkers after a brief running session with a warning to "stay in shape" over the Christmas holiday.

4 Bears Missing

Waco, Tex. (P) — Four top hands were missing Tuesday as Baylor held its final pre-Christmas workout for the Gator Bowl game with Florida Dec. 31.

Starting Guard Everett Frazier, halfback Ronnie Goodwin and ends Bobby Lane and Ted Plumb were out with injuries or illness. All 4 are expected to be fully ready when the Bears report back here and leave Dec. 27 for Jacksonville.

Florida QB Hurt

Gainesville, Fla. (P) — Larry Libertore, Florida's spark-plug quarterback, was injured in practice for the Gator Bowl game Tuesday.

Libertore was hurt when he and Lindy Infante collided in a scrimmage on pass defense. Libertore was limping badly. His leg was taped and X-rays were taken for later study to determine the extent of the injury.

South Seeks Revenge For Blue-Gray Losses

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — The South is out to avenge the loss of the last two Blue-Gray football games.

Rebel coaches have marshaled a beefy brigade of southern college youngsters in an all-out effort to turn the tables in the Dec. 31 struggle between top intersectional talent.

But the North players pack the power and prowess to make possible their 3rd straight triumph. A little extra enthusiasm is expected to be the South's only advantage.

One thing is sure. With the classy passers lined up for the Yanks and Rebs, both sides will undergo a heavy shelling from the air. A stout pass defense will be a must ingredient for victory.

Spearheading the South's bombardment will be 3 ace passing quarterbacks: Georgia's Francis Tarkenton, Norman Snead of Wake Forest and Jerry Eisaman of Kentucky.

Tarkenton, who led the

Halsey Hot Streak Wins Star Honors

By Al Beebe

It was a big week for Halsey. Not often in recent years has the Halsey team won two games in a week.

But it was a bigger week for Karl Marten, who earns The Star's "Basketball Player of the Week" award.

On Tuesday against Brewster, Marten scored 54 points, picked off 17 rebounds, and was credited with 7 pass interceptions. That resulted in a 88-51 victory for Halsey.

Friday, against Merriman, Marten tallied 33 points, snared 21 rebounds, and intercepted 6 passes in a 51-49 victory.

Marten, a 6-2 senior, will receive a card from The Star, along with these other top performers last week.

Litchfield — Dan Beaman, basket in 3rd overtime, 10 points, scored 57-55 win over West Kearny.

Alma — Alan Preusch hit 33 and got 25 rebounds in win over Bertrand.

Sioux City — Gerald Arches got 34 points in total, 34 loss to Sioux City Heelan.

Sparta — Bill Witz had 30 and 28 points on consecutive nights.

Lincoln Northeast — Ron Wevers scored only one basket, but last-second points proved the 56-55 win over Lincoln High.

Fremont — Jim Brown's 30 points play with 15 seconds left beat Grand Island, 49-45.

Omaha Tech — Bill King hit 33 points, 22 in first half, in 66-63 win over Boys Town.

Purses Go Up At Ak-Sar-Ben

Omaha (AP) — A total of $1.1 million in purses will be at stake during the 40-day race meeting at Omaha's Ak-Sar-Ben track opening May 12.

E. F. Pettis, chairman of the Omaha Civic Organization's racing committee, said it is the largest purse schedule ever offered by a race-track between Chicago and the West Coast.

The minimum purse has been boosted to $2,300. There will be 13 races offering $10,000 or more and two $15,000 added purses.

Baby Bottle Bout Bothers Bum Back

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP) — Golf pro Joe Campbell has learned that feeding a baby has its hazards — same as a golf course.

Campbell got up at 4 a.m. the other day to feed his baby son, Blake, now 11 days old. In bending over the crib, Campbell suffered a recurrence of an old back injury.

Now Campbell is in traction at a hospital. He said he hopes to be home by Christmas and to rejoin the pro tour at Los Angeles Jan. 1.

Vacation Rec Program Set

A special vacation recreation program for boys is planned for all junior high schools beginning Dec. 22. Team and individual games will be included in the 6-day program which will be supervised by trained recreation personnel.

Snead won the No. 3 ranking by passing for 1,676 yards, completing 123 of 259 tries.

Of equal note are the North's two aerial specialists: Bernie Allen of Purdue and Dale Betty of Maryland. Allen triggered Purdue's upset victory over previously unbeaten Minnesota. Betty's steady accuracy nailed down the No. 12 rating for him.

The program schedule calls for two sessions daily (9-11 a.m., 1-3:30 p.m.) on Dec. 22, 23, 27, 28, 29, 30.

Dents Top Midland B

Fremont — The University of Nebraska Dental All-Stars captured a 59-44 basketball win over the Midland College "B" team here.

Doane's Barker On Academic Team

Crete — Ron Barker, Doane College's star halfback from Milford, has been named on the Little All-America Academic football team — the only Nebraskan selected for the first team.

Peru guard Ray Unterbrink made the second team.

The team is sponsored by the College Sports Information Directors of America and the American Peoples Encyclopedia.

Players chosen to the first team came from 11 states. To be eligible a player must have made at least a B average in the classroom and must have starred on the gridiron.

Montgomery, Ala. (AP) — The South is out to avenge the loss of the last two Blue-Gray football games.

Rebel coaches have marshaled a beefy brigade of southern college youngsters in an all-out effort to turn the tables in the Dec. 31 struggle between top intersectional talent.

But the North players pack the power and prowess to make possible their 3rd straight triumph. A little extra enthusiasm is expected to be the South's only advantage.

One thing is sure. With the classy passers lined up for the Yanks and Rebs, both sides will undergo a heavy shelling from the air. A stout pass defense will be a must ingredient for victory.

Spearheading the South's bombardment will be 3 ace passing quarterbacks: Georgia's Francis Tarkenton, Norman Snead of Wake Forest and Jerry Eisaman of Kentucky.

Whopping Wheat Crop Forecast

... EARLY NEBRASKA ESTIMATE ABOVE '60 PRODUCTION

By Ovid A. Martin

Washington (UPI) — A winter wheat crop of 1,034,406,000 bushels next year was forecast Tuesday by the Agriculture Department.

A crop of this size would help add to a record surplus already in existence.

Such a crop would be 7% smaller than this year's crop but nearly one-fourth larger than average and the fifth largest production of record.

The department made no forecast of the crop to be seeded in the spring but should it equal this year's production of 246,000,246 million bushels, total wheat production next year would be about 1,280,000,000 bushels compared with this year's crop of 1,363,000,000.

A total crop of this size would be slightly over 100 million bushels more than a year's requirements.

The 1961 crop will be supplemented by a reserve and surplus of 1,525,000,000 bushels, most of it held by the government under price support operations.

The acreage seeded to winter wheat last fall for next year's harvest was reported at 43,926,000 acres, compared with 43,213,000 seeded for this year's crop and 48,366,000 acres for the 10-year average.

The department said the yield of winter wheat per seeded acre, based on conditions as of Dec. 1, averaged 23.6 bushels per acre — compared with 25.9 this year and the 10 year average of 17.6.

NIKITA, TOO, SHOWS FAITH IN PERENNIALS

Omaha (UPI) — When Soviet Premier Khrushchev said last summer that Russia would "bury" the United States, Mrs. Raymond Dutton of Omaha quickly let the Russians know how American gardeners feel.

She fired off a letter to the Russian Minister of Agriculture.

"I told them, by gosh we gardeners are planting our perennials so we expect to be around a few years."

To prove it, she enclosed packages of garden seeds — strictly perennials, no annuals.

The reply came Tuesday: An envelope filled with tiny packets of seeds from the main botanical gardens, Academy of Science, Soviet Russia.

They're all perennials, too.

McCook Farm Home Destroyed By Fire

McCook (UPI) — An unoccupied farm home 5 miles southwest of here burned to the ground early Tuesday.

The home was owned by Mrs. Mildred Dutton, a widow, who had just moved into McCook for the winter.

The one-story frame home was destroyed by the time neighbors reached it at about 3:30 a.m. Mrs. Dutton said a neighbor had checked it about 10 p.m.

WHEAT CROPS ESTIMATED

Here is the estimated 1961 winter wheat production in bushels, for leading producing states based on Dec. 1 conditions, and compared with 1960 production and the 1949-58 average:

	1961	1960	10-Year Average
Kansas	247,503,000	290,640,000	175,507,000
Oklahoma	100,650,000	121,278,000	66,759,000
Washington	64,640,000	61,600,000	55,833,000
Nebraska	86,300,000	83,472,000	77,875,000
Ohio	42,896,000	52,500,000	47,205,000
Michigan	52,470,000	46,226,000	45,715,000
Illinois	35,061,000	33,926,000	33,485,000
Missouri	37,465,000	37,480,000	32,480,000
Indiana	41,695,000	41,844,000	36,112,000
Montana	40,647,000	44,924,000	36,528,000
Texas	82,170,000	84,645,000	37,751,000

Omaha Man Is Found Guilty In Extortion Trial

Omaha (UPI) — A Douglas County jury Tuesday convicted Robert Blevens, 36, of extortion by blackmail.

The jury returned the verdict in 20 minutes.

Blevens' bond of $5,000 was continued pending a motion for a new trial.

The state had rested one hour after presentation of witnesses including the complainant, Frank Mason, and a police sergeant.

Mason said Blevens has threatened his family with harm and demanded payment of about $1,000. Mason's testimony was supported by Sgt. Milton Straka and car driver Arthur Steinberg. Straka and Steinberg assisted in setting a trap for Blevens and two accomplices in the alleged blackmail scheme.

The other two men are awaiting trial.

6200 HAVELOCK AVENUE

Nebraska had a bumper wheat crop this year and will have an even better one in 1961, based on Dec. 1 estimates of the crop.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Tuesday forecast a Nebraska winter wheat crop of 86,476,000 bushels, compared with this year's production of 85,472,000 and the 10-year average of 77,875,000.

If the prediction holds up, it will mean a per acre yield of 26 bushels. The state has 3,326,000 acres planted to winter wheat, one per cent more than in 1960.

A. V. Nordquist, chief of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural statistics, said seeding was started "somewhat earlier than usual." He said surface soil was dry in

Lower Loup-Platte Group Is Organized

Schuyler (UPI) — The Lower Loup-Platte Association has been formed by business and farm leaders who want to promote over-all development and planning of water resources in the Loup and Lower Platte watersheds.

Thomas Eason of North Bend was elected president at the organizational meeting Monday. The communities of Genoa, Columbus, Schuyler, North Bend, Fremont and Valley were represented.

Eason said if upriver flood control had been considered and acted on before, 1960 savings to downriver property would have amounted to millions of dollars in last spring's flood.

He said the association also intends to work closely with chambers of commerce, state and federal agencies and other organizations interested in Nebraska's industrial and agricultural development.

Lancaster County Ag Conservation Program Is Set

The Lancaster County Agricultural Conservation Program will be initiated Jan. 1, Dale Nelson announced Tuesday.

Nelson, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said the 1961 program will be substantially the same as in 1960. County ASC committee members will administer the ACP as in previous years.

Requests for federal cost-sharing to aid farmers in establishing approved conservation practices for the protection of soil and water resources should be filed at the ASC office in Lincoln within 30 days prior to the time farmers intend to begin application of the practice, Nelson said.

He added that participation in the ACP is voluntary, but every farmer and land owner having erosion problems will be given the opportunity to request federal cost-sharing assistance.

Liberia Gets Split Security Council Seat

United Nations, N.Y. (P) Liberia was elected to Security Council membership Tuesday—the first African Negro nation to serve there—as the result of a compromise agreement to split a two-year term with Ireland. The deal eliminated Portugal, an African colonial power, as a contender for a council seat. Liberia was elected to a regular term starting Jan. 1, but under the agreement will step down and be replaced by Ireland on Jan. 1, 1962.

The agreement was announced by Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, president of the 99-nation General Assembly, after 13 ballots had failed to give any country the required two-thirds majority.

The deadlock arose after the Asian and African countries decided to put up their own candidate for the seat being vacated after a two-year term by Italy. The Western European countries had endorsed Portugal.

Portugal withdrew Tuesday afternoon, letting Ireland become the Western European candidate.

On the last ballot before the compromise, Ireland and Liberia received 45 votes each.

Then, with Liberia as the only avowed candidate, the assembly took its 14th ballot. The result was: Liberia 76, Ireland 5, Portugal 2, Cyprus and Nigeria 1 each.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said the agreement was outside the terms of the U.N. charter and that the Soviet delegation's position would be determined next year.

The assembly twice before had broken deadlocks on security council by splitting a two-year term. In 1955 Yugoslavia and the Philippines reached such an agreement and in 1959 Poland and Turkey accepted a similar arrangement.

The assembly previously had elected the United Arab Republic and Chile for two-year terms and Turkey for the remaining year of the Polish-Turkish term. The other two non-permanent members of the 11-nation council are Ecuador and Ceylon, whose terms expire next year. The 6 non-permanent members sit in the 11-nation council with the 5 vetoed permanent members: The United States, Britain, Soviet Union, France and China.

Caught In Burning Ship, You Remember To Pray

New York (P) — Nobody really knows what it's like to be alone—until he's trapped in a blazing ship for six hours.

To John Woytovich, a short, chunky 57-year-old electrician, it was like 6 centuries. And: "I was alone . . . very, very alone."

During that time, he said, he thought of a million things. He prayed almost that many times, too. He asked for a miracle. He's sure he was granted one.

Father of Two

Woytovich, father of two children, said he was working with a crew on a refrigeration unit 3 decks down when fire broke out aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation.

The group received an order to abandon ship, he said, and the others started getting panicky.

"I had been a lifeguard when I was younger," Woytovich related, "and I don't panic easy, so I stood next to the ladder and tried to keep order. I got the men to stop shoving and go up in an orderly way. So I was the last man."

Couldn't See

"Smoke had started to fill in and I couldn't find my way out. I went up on one deck and had to stop. You couldn't see. You couldn't breathe."

"Somehow I ended up in a chain locker. I felt a draft around my ankles. There was air down there, so I lay down on my stomach with my face against this vent. That's what saved my life."

"I wanted to be home for Christmas and . . . I'm going to be, now. It's just a miracle . . . Lord knows, I lay there and prayed for one."

Many Thoughts

"I thought of many things as I lay there. The first thing was to keep making noise so somebody would know I was there. You know, I never got tired. I never felt it."

"I lay there hoping against hope. I knew if I gave up that was all for me. I'm a fighter. I knew they'd save me. I had to know they'd save me."

"You think of a million things when you're in a spot like that, but there's only one thought—you want to live, you want out."

Gonna Get You

"You think, are they gonna get to you? Then you think they have to get you out. It wouldn't be right if they didn't get to you . . ."

"There's a million things go through your mind."

"And you remember to pray."

FATAL PASSION POTION NETS LOVER CONVICTION

Lewes, England (P) — A gas meter reader who played Lethario to several lonely housewives was convicted Tuesday of causing the death of one of them.

The gas man, 47-year-old Leonard J. Pike, was sentenced to 15 months in prison on a charge of manslaughter.

The victim was a pretty brunette, Mrs. Sylvia Corbett, 31. A neighbor woman found her nude body on a divan at her home two months ago. Nearby was a cloth pad which had been soaked with a common cleaning fluid.

Police said Pike admitted that Mrs. Corbett died while inhaling the cleaning fluid as a prelude to making love with him.

Pike testified he had administered the fluid not only to Mrs. Corbett but a number of other housewives on his rounds. He said it had the effect of making them passionate.

The prosecution introduced as a witness one of the other housewives — identified only as "Mrs. X" — who told the jury she and Pike had experimented with the fluid.

She agreed with him that it had the effect of exciting female passion.

A doctor called by the prosecution said the fluid had irritated a nerve and caused Mrs. Corbett's heart to stop.

He testified it might have this effect on anyone who inhaled it.

It was Pike's second trial on the manslaughter charge. The jury in the first trial, held last month, was unable to agree on a verdict.

We would like to move as much as possible back in the Capitol," the governor-elect said, thus cutting the rental expense.

Morrison conferred on budget proposals for the second straight day.

Officials of the Board of Control, Welfare Department, Department of Education and Normal Board met with the governor-elect and his budget advisors.

Morrison Says Statehouse May Have Office Room

Governor-elect Frank Morrison Tuesday said he expects to undertake a study of space needs and availability in the State Capitol.

The state, Morrison said, is now paying $200,000 annually for space rental outside the Statehouse.

"We would like to move as much as possible back in the Capitol," the governor-elect said, thus cutting the rental expense.

Morrison conferred on budget proposals for the second straight day.

Simmons Charges University With 'Gross Waste Of Money'

State Sen. Ray C. Simmons of Fremont Tuesday charged the University of Nebraska with "what appears to me to be a gross waste of the taxpayers' money."

Simmons alleged that the University has imposed upon its professors an "absurdly low work load" which has resulted in a "surplus of professor power."

University Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin replied that the senator "continues to misunderstand the function of a state university and its operations and traditions."

Simmons is a member of the Legislative Council committee studying higher education in Nebraska.

In reply to the senator's 7-page allegation, Hardin said:

"The statement of Mr. Simmons clearly indicates that he continues to misunderstand the function of a state university and its operations and traditions."

"He apparently fails to realize that research, as well as teaching, is a part of the program of a modern state university, and he ignores the service function of such institutions."

"Misinterpretation can be expected when comparisons are attempted between dissimilar types of colleges and universities."

5½ Hours A Week'

Simmons said he had revealed more than a year ago that College of Law faculty members were teaching only 5½ hours per week.

"I released this information publicly only after I had visited the University administration about the problem and it indicated complete disinterest," he said.

"It has apparently done nothing to correct the situation, and has shown no interest in so doing."

Simmons said a study now underway "shows a situation almost as bad in the undergraduate schools."

The average teaching load in that area is only 10.7 hours per week, he continued.

"This work load," Simmons said, "is far too low."

At the University of Omaha, it is 15 hours; at Nebraska teachers colleges 15.7 hours; at Nebraska junior colleges 16.3 hours; at non-public schools 13.5 hours.

To the answer that the time of University professors is taken to a large degree by research, Simmons said:

"Some of the research is, of course, of benefit, but even if all of it were, the simple fact is that professors are hired to teach, not to spend their time in research."

The University, he said, has "a surplus of professor power" which "means unnecessary classrooms and offices."

A University which is "so unconcerned about waste of teaching talent is doubtless little worried about waste in other areas of its operations as well," Simmons charged.

Plans Announced For Public Adult Mental Health Clinic

Preliminary plans have been announced for a pilot public mental health clinic for adults which is tentatively scheduled to begin Jan. 9 in Lincoln.

Walter Henrion, chairman of the Community Council's special mental health committee, stated "Naturally, the pilot clinic will give a service to the community in demonstrating its need."

Henrion has led the fight for a southeast Nebraska public clinic in Lincoln.

Dr. Richard Gray, superintendent of Lincoln State Hospital, heads the several psychiatrists from the hospital who have volunteered their services for the proposed 3-nights-a-week pilot clinic.

Henrion said psychologists and all other staff members needed will be volunteered, too.

It is hoped the clinics can be conducted at the Child Guidance Center, 1517 H.

Complaints Prompt January Restudy Of School Fire Laws

By Virgil Falloon

A restudy of state fire regulations on Nebraska schools will start Jan. 12 as the result of a 2½-hour hearing Tuesday before the state fire marshal's advisory committee.

Major criticism voiced by witnesses was that the 17-month-old regulations were subject to widely-varying interpretations by the fire marshal's staff.

Gov. Dwight Burney, who called the meeting because of widespread complaint, suggested the rules be revised if hearing opinion indicated the need for a restudy.

The committee named Dr. Steven N. Watkins, Lincoln superintendent of schools as its chairman, in scheduling a one to two-day workshop session starting Jan. 12.

"School officials feel concern for the safety of children," John Lynch of the Nebraska State Education Association told the committee, "but schools don't know where they stand because of varying and conflicting interpretations of the fire regulations."

Lists Complaints

Lynch reported these specific complaints or recommendations developed in a Dec. 15 meeting of 41 representatives of large and small, public and parochial schools:

-Conflicting recommendations have come from the fire marshal's office; approving recommendations by one inspector have been countermanded by another in many instances.

-Plans for fire safety record of Nebraska's schools, Dr. Watkins said the primary concern of fire regulations should be for the lives of children and only secondarily for the preservation of the building.

-There has been indiscriminate application of other codes, often conflicting with the 1959 state fire code.

-The fire marshal's office has shown disregard for the cost of fire protection changes.

-The office does not have technical personnel capable of working with architects and engineers regarding fire safety plans.

-The fire marshal should be placed in the governor's office and removed from the jurisdiction of the department of insurance.

-Changes in the fire code should be made by the Legislature and should be a part of statute law.

Mainly For Lives'

Noting the 100% fire safety record of Nebraska's schools, Dr. Watkins said the primary concern of fire regulations should be for the lives of children and only secondarily for the preservation of the building.

"If the department needs to be enlarged, it should be done," he said. "If an engineer or architect is needed on full-time or consulting basis, he should be hired."

C. A. Donaldson, University of Nebraska business manager, suggested that the committee write a fire code for schools that does not incorporate other codes, often conflicting, by reference.

He suggested schools could be given a "certificate of compliance" for fire safety changes so there can be no doubt or misunderstanding later.

Others speaking to the committee were Kenneth Clark, a Lincoln architect; L. Nelson Bartunek, a Lincoln taxpayer, Dr. Neal Gomon of Peru, and Robert Conrad, administrative assistant to the late Gov. Ralph Brooks.

Attending members of the advisory committee were Emil Wagner, Nebraska Inspection Bureau; Carl Botsford, Board of Control; Rev. R. C. Ulrich, Catholic Diocese of Omaha; E. A. Larson, State Normal Board; DeWayne Gardner, Department of Education; F. Don Maclay, Norfolk school superintendent; Warren Huff, Omaha public schools, Donaldson and Watkins.
